

MASTER OF VIOLIN PLEASES AUDIENCE

Elman Enthralls His Hearers at the Salt Lake Theater.

Of his violin and, for the of those who listened to him, Elman upheld his great name of the foremost violinists of the Salt Lake theater last night, truly wonderful playing. An audience filled the theater from pit to top and enthralled through much of programme and applauded each so enthusiastically and so perfectly as to drag from the smiling encore after encore.

Impression of wonderful mastery, complete perfection of technical skill knowledge, blended with a fine of the divine harmonies, goes with his playing. His every stroke im- the finished polish of his art. A that proves the man a mu- at heart as well as at his finger and color to his playing.

To the initiated they prob- revealed the perfection of his art, those to whom the soul of music elemental thing, the less ponder- pieces—the daintier pieces—that after, were far preferable. In Elman thrilled his listeners to rapture. After one particularly melody they would not allow to leave the stage, persisting in until he had given three in succession. Even when the name was over almost everybody their seats and called for more, a unusual exhibition. They called Elman, who just as half audience was rising to depart, came again to the stage. He raised and at the gesture the moving now halted instantly. One touch strings and all were seated again, a striking demonstration of the of the man. Silence so absolute one could have heard a pin dropped recorded him during his perform-
